

ATTENDANCE POLICY – COVENTRY UNIVERSITY BRANCH

Policy Title	Attendance Policy
Responsible University Offices	Provost and Heads of Schools/Departments
Policy Owner	Provost
Version	V2
Date Approved	November 2022

I. SCOPE OF POLICY

This TKH Universities attendance policy covers all enrolled students in the TKH Coventry University Branch in the two campuses: TKH-East and TKH-West.

II. DEFINITIONS

Attendance refers to undergraduate students' attendance in lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs and other required academic activities. "Instructor" refers to the academic staff responsible for delivering lectures and other content, grading, supervising, managing a class, and all other duties carried out by academic staff.

III. POLICY STATEMENT

Attendance and participation in lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities are essential to achieving learning outcomes in all TKH University undergraduate programmes. Some modules are designed with participation as integral to achieving learning outcomes. These modules begin in the Foundation year and continue at every level of a student's academic tenure. For this reason, students are expected to attend all module requirements regularly in accordance with the general TKH policy described below and the specific policy detailed in each module descriptor.

IV. POLICY GUIDELINES

1. For the academic year: 2022 – 2023, students are required to attend 50% of all lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities. Stated differently, students may be absent from class a total of 50% of all lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities.

For the academic year: 2023 – 2024, students are required to attend 60% of all lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities. Stated differently, students may be absent from class a total of 40% of all lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities.

Starting from the academic year: 2024 – 2025, students are required to attend 75% of all lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities. Stated differently, students may be absent from class a total of 25% of all lectures, seminars, tutorials, labs, and other required academic activities.

2. On the first day of classes, each instructor will review the guidelines governing the attendance in the module that are applied equally and without bias to all students in the class.
3. Students are responsible for tracking their own attendance records and for asking their instructors to inform them of their records of attendance if they, as students, have no access to their attendance records. If students believe that they have been incorrectly marked absent for a class, they have 48 hours from the time of the class in which they were marked absent to discuss this with the instructor.
4. An instructor will fail any student for the first attempt of exams or course work when that student exceeds the maximum allowed absence as outlined in IV.1 policy guidelines, above in this TKH policy published on the website.
5. Students are expected to be present in the classroom/lecture hall during the entire class. In general, if a student chooses to leave the room/hall where the class is being held, the student is not permitted to re-enter the room/hall unless prior arrangements have been made with the instructor responsible for the class.
6. It is left to the instructor to determine whether to mark absent a student who chooses to leave the classroom after the class has begun.
7. For field trips/site visits where attendance is required, students on the trip who do not stay with the group for the entire duration of the trip/visit will be counted as absent. However, in accordance with the travel policy, all students will be expected to return to TKH using the same method of transportation that brought them to the location of the field trip/site visit.

8. The concept of “excuses” for absence, whether verified and/or provided by medical personnel or other qualified personnel, do not provide additional absence time to students beyond the number of absences allowed. This means that when students have a written excuse for their absence on a certain day, they are still marked absent for that day. The number of absences allowed in this policy (see IV.1. above) is meant to include time for unavoidable absence, and all students are expected to use the allowed absence in cases where they are truly unable to attend.
9. If a student’s absence means they are unable to submit or participate in an assessment at the scheduled time due to an unavoidable emergency such as illness, an extension or deferral can be made. This is a separate process.

To apply for an extension or deferral of an assessment, please read the policy and follow the process described in the Assessment Extensions and Deferrals Policy, found on the TKH website. If eligible, the student should complete the form attached to the policy. This will enable Registry to consider allowing additional time to complete assessments.
